GREENBOOK DIRECTORY (ALPHABETICAL LISTING) 1

INDEX:

ORGANIZATIONS LISTED BY TYPE 52

WHAT IS THE ENVIRONMENTAL GREENBOOK?

THE ENVIRONMENTAL GREENBOOK is a directory of over 130 environmentally concerned organizations operating within the metropolitan Boston area (see map, next page). The groups listed within are a diverse mixture of local, regional, and national non-profit organizations and government agencies.

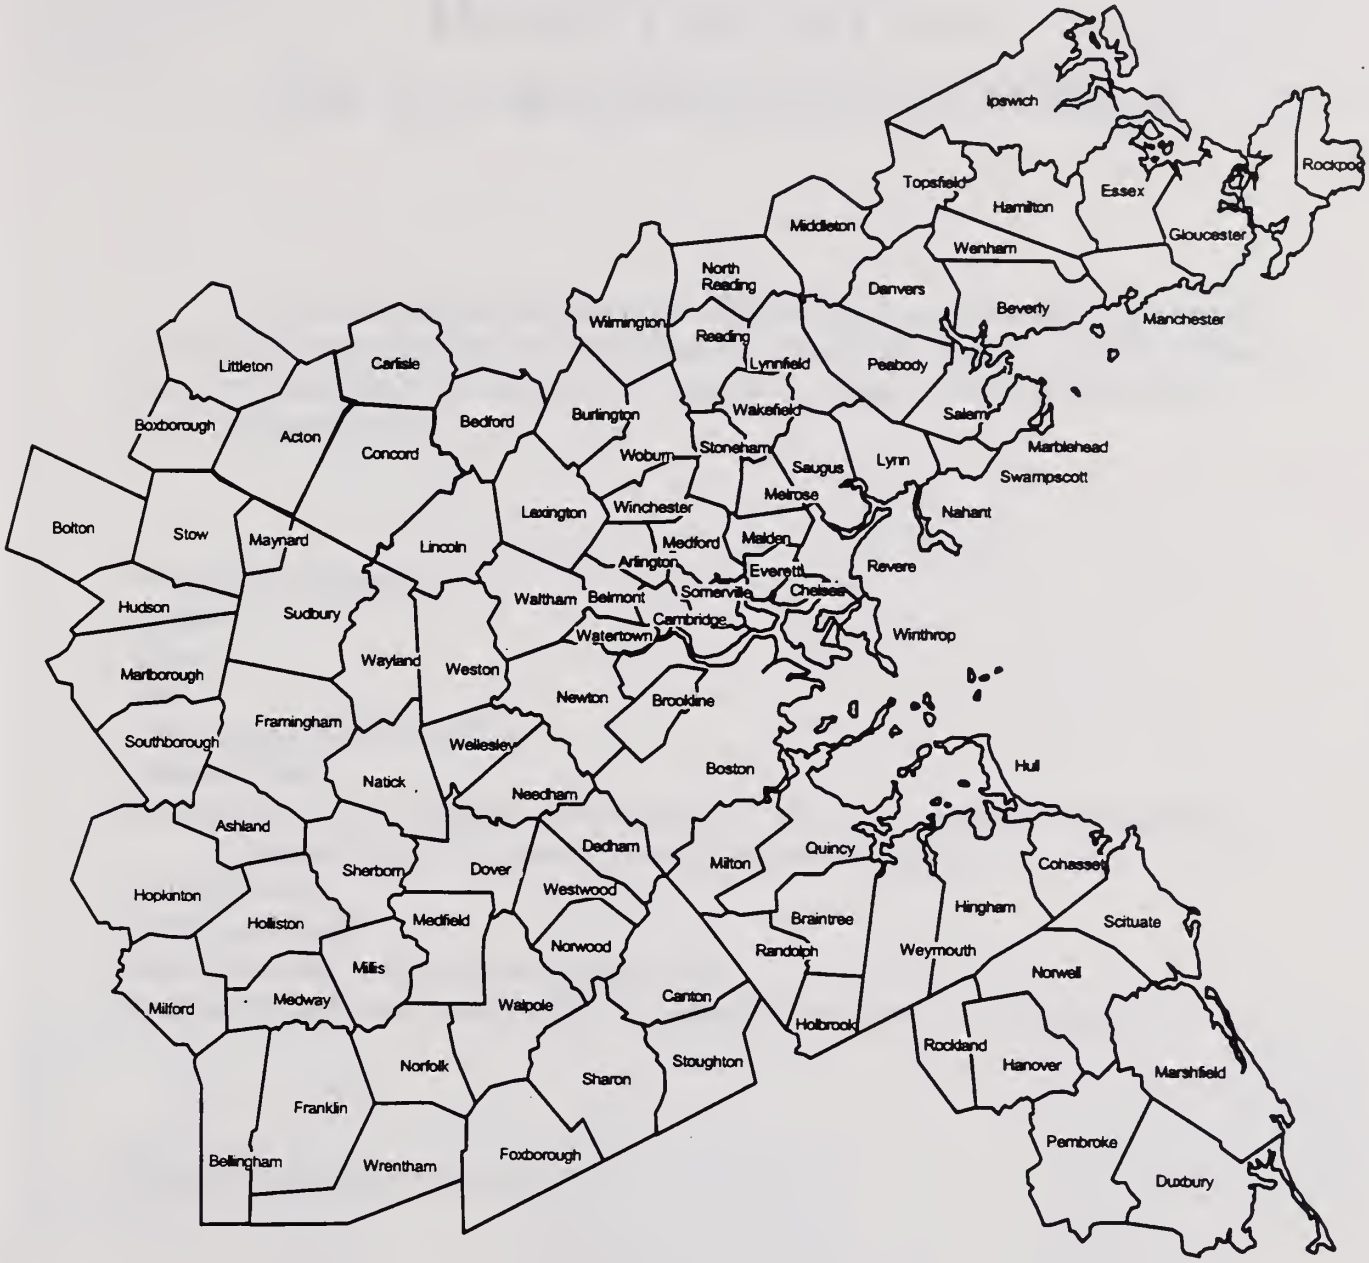
Although formidable, our environmental efforts lack common ground. By identifying and describing the myriad of environmentally concerned organizations operating in the metro Boston area, THE ENVIRONMENTAL GREENBOOK provides the basis for some common ground. By making non-profits, governments, businesses, and individuals aware of "what's out there," THE ENVIRONMENTAL GREENBOOK sparks cooperation between, and interest in, the region's diverse environmental groups. This increased activity helps result in more effective environmental efforts on all fronts.

Listed alphabetically, each reference in this booklet contains the organization's name, address, phone & fax numbers, chairperson, type of organization, public/private classification, statement of purpose, and major activities. Organizations are divided into one of eight categories: general environmental, land-use, openspace, preservation, transportation, waste management, watershed, or wildlife. These categories only describe the general function of an organization and often overlap. In the rear of the directory is located an index that lists groups by category as well as public/private classification.

Although public agencies are included in THE ENVIRONMENTAL GREENBOOK, not listed are municipal conservation commissions which are charged with wetlands protection and maintenance of environmental standards. Conservation commissions can be reached through their respective town or city hall.

The world of environmental advocacy is in constant evolution. This is by no means a comprehensive list of every organization who advocates for environmental protection. The directory will be constantly updated in an effort to achieve greater accuracy, but this first edition is a starting point, and where would we be without starting points?

The Environmental Greenbook Region



The organizations listed in this booklet operate in the above communities.
